TRAINED SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

By Mrs. M. N. Perry

Mr. President and Members of the Convention, I am very happy to say a few words in regard to the duties of a Secretary. I have been greatly benefitted in so much as I've seen my shortcomings and weaknesses.

There are several books on Sunday School management and the duties of officers are among the most outstanding facts. I have spent quite a bit of time reading some of them and trying to make myself more efficient than before.

The office of a secretary is one of the most important in the entire Sunday School. Great care should be exercised in the selection of the Secretary. The person selected may by study and application to the task, render a really great Kingdom service. Pardon me. but I must digress myself from the subject just a tiny bit, however, to my mind, it fits in pretty well. I'm afraid we do not use good Judgment or rather common sense in electing secretaries in some of our Sunday Schools. I think I'm in position to say this because the reports that some of our Sunday Schools send up are ridiculous. You can hardly make out what Sunday School its from, who the Pastor is, who the secretary is, or any of the facts that should be known of. It is not because the person that fills the office does not have religion. It is simply because he or she is not eligible from a literary standpoint. If you could see some of the invitations and announcements that come from various Sunday Schools, you would say along with me that education has been infringed upon due to the fact that High Schools and Colleges are within our borders and public schools everywhere and what you might say on every doorstsep. I have a strong conviction against any person for accepting an office knowing that he cannot fill it. A bold hand write schould be the gift of every boy and girl of today, so let us see that we elect persons that can read and write as well as persons with good religion.

The matter of younger people filling offices in the Sunday School has become so prevalent that we as older people are willing and glad to step behind and push them gently to the front for surely "we have done what we could." So with this thought in mind, I'm sure we will use more of our boys and girls that come back to us well prepared.

Now back to the duties of a secretary:

1. The secretary should secure and keep an accurate enrollment of the entire Sunday School because when he is called upon for the number enrolled he can easily give you exact figures.

2. The general secretary should see that the various secretaries of each department or class give accurate reports. The general secretary should be able to present promptly a complete tabulated report showing the status of each department or class.

3. The secretary should be able to work along with the other officers of the Sunday School in such way that his influence would be seen through plans which may be devised from time to time for presenting the work of the school in a way to stimulate interest, to increase attendance, and to secure larger efficeincy.

4. The general secretary will become responsible for the instruction and training of every person in the school who has secretarial duties. Any system of records will be difficult unless there is full and intelligent cooperation. On the other hand the most complicated system becomes easy in the hands of a skillful person.

Therefore, friends, I beseech you to look the matter square in the face intelligently and place in your secretary's chair one who is capable to carry out some of these points. At least some one who can read and write—with this motto in mind, steer straight ahead:

"Be firm, be gentle: love is strong.
Look to Jesus: you'll not go wrong."

CONVENTION THEME (ONENESS OF PURPOSE)

Officers, members and Friends of this the Wake County Convention. We have assembled here at this time as the guests of the good people of the First Baptist Church of Fuquay Springs, and the people of this community, and by the kind invitation of the Church and Sunday School. Let us as Christians work together for the cause of Christ and humanity. May we conduct our lives, our actions, in such a manner that when we have left this community we will leave an impression on the people that they will be glad that we came to them and that it will encourage them to do more and greater things.

We are now celebrating the 37th Annual Meeting of the Convention. We are pleased with the work of the Convention that has been done by the Mossionaries, Instructors, General and District Supervisors. We have stressed the importance of keeping expenses down to the minimum. Although you know as well as I that this type of work cost something, we thank all who cooperated with us in this program and those who did not. We are aware there is some planned effort to disrupt the County organization, by whom or for what reason I do not know. But it will not succeed. We are going ahead rendering every interest of the people of Wake County. As our Finance increase we expect to increase and enlarge our program and that of contacting every Sunday School each year at least once, in order that we might be able to get them to see the value in attending their district meetings.

The objectives of this Convention (1) to awaken a greater interest in the Sunday School work in the Church, and destitute neighborhoods throughout the country; (2) to assist in supporting the orphan and foreign work; and awaken a general interest in the moral and religious education of both old and young.

I thank the members of this Convention for thrusting upon me the responsibility of President. I realize it is an honorable position. I would not have accepted the position unless I had a definite impression that God was in the call, that is the voice of God through man, which called me to the task. I understand it is a worthy ambition for a man to have a desire for a place of great opportunity for service. And yet every one should examine himself carefully in order that he may not be actuated by any selfish purpose or unrighteous motive, but by a high and holy desire to serve God and his fellow man. I have tried to consecrate myself to the work of the convention with a high sense of all that is involved in the position. We have given much time to the convention work. I have planned definitely to give the best that is in me to the convention work.

As President of this convention I feel that I am responsible for its progress or failure, but there must be cooperation on the part of the convention officers. Therefore, I have given much concern in thinking and planning in order that the people of Wake County may have the best training there is along Sunday School methods and Bible training. We need the prayers of every one to help in this spiritual task in training our people.

The need of the people constitutes their greatest appeal to us. We have looked low enough to see all their neds and high enough to overlook all their faults. We do not expect too much of the people, and when they fail to measure up to their responsibilities we do not manifest disappointment and discouragement. Our faith in them is boundless and we understand people develop slowly, after the outcome seems to hang in a balance. Patience is needed to await results but the outcome is certain and frequently unsuspected and surprising.

The characteristic of the convention or Sunday School is either progressing or retrogressing. I realize the president or the head of any organization is a leader and not a follower. He must not only keep up with but ahead of the entire organization procession. He should lead from the front and not from the rear.

The leader must not be a stand-patter except where principles are concerned. He must be willing and ready to introduce new methods to the organization and not satisfied with past achievements, and not willing to let "well enough alone". He must have perfection his goal for organization whether Church, Sunday School or Convention. He must be open minded, willing to receive help from any and all sources. He must also be open-eyed, knowing that vigilance is the price of Church, Sunday School and Convention progress, or success. The leader must be a man or woman of action. He should not only be willing to try new methods, he should try them. He should not only be satisfied with past achievements, but must vigorously undertake new and greater achievements. The leader or president of any organization must be a doer.

It is truly vigorous deeds and not talk that builds and maintains a great organization. A shifting, hesitating, dill-dallying policy is always fatal to the organization. People lose interest, schools fall out or fail behind in finances.

We must be enthusiastic. Enthusiasm is the greatest business asset in the world and is equally valuable an a convention asset. Enthusiasm is contageous. It is commanding. It has an indefinite influence. Enthusiasm is faith in action. It is a combination of faith and initiative and when these are rightly combined they remove mountainous barriers and achieve the unheard of and miraculous. An enthusiastic man is always convincing and dominating and people will follow him gladly and without questioning.

Like many other good qualities, enthusiasm may be acquired and with the proper nature and cultivation it may be kept at high tide. Three things are mentioned here as necessary in arousing and maintaining enthusiasm:

(1) A broad vision.

2() Adequate information.

3() Skill or the ability to do a thing well.

The pastor, superintendent or president or leader of an organization with a small, narrow vision will have a small organization. It is impossible for them to have any other kind. The organization cannot be any better than they see it. None but a broad visioned, enthusiastic leader can successfully lead in building and maintaining a great organization

The leader of any organization must be well informed. Next to a large vision there is nothing that will arouse enthusiasm like knowledge. It is both unreasonable and absurd to expect one to be enthusiastic about a thing of which he is ignorant. If the leader would maintatin a fine state of enthusiasm in his work and if he would be able to impart this spirit of enthusiasm to the organization, he must study his work constantly. He must know the work, know how to do the work, know his workers, and he must know how to get them to do their work.

In order to build a great convention the membership must subordinate everything to the will of God and daily live the attitude. God requires much of a Christian. By self-sacrifice of the membership a great convention could be built. There are different types of members who could by such a policy increase their value to the convention and the kingdom of God. There are a great many members who underestimate their own abilities, and thinking they aren't fit for service, they don't try to take any part in the Sunday School or convention work. God can use many people of limited abilities. Through constant use and practice, their value would be greatly increased. Another type of members are the one ones who excuse their lack of service by the failures of others, who take the attitude that he is doing as much as the other fellow.

Some members will refuse to cooperate, won't work with other members for purely personal reasons. These people think more of themselves than the cause of righteousness. But a great Church, Sunday School, and Convention requires the united cooperative efforts of all its members. Petty individual differences and whims must be subordinated to the will of God.

The Church must keep up with the times and yet stand for the religious principles of the Church. The Church through its school must strive to teach and direct the social activities of the young, because religion comes mainly by training, and the Church School is the best organization outside of the home in which to begin. There is no organization you can substitute in the place of the Church School that will develop the boy or girl into virile and vigorous Christian manhood and womanhood.

It is hoped that each Sunday School in this County will do all within their power to help raise the $600.000 this Convention is asked to raise on the $70,000.00 drive for Shaw University. We felt that this amount is not any too much for Wake County to contribute. Why should we do all we can for Shaw? (1) Because of its strong Christian influence. (2) Because it is our own school. (3) Because it is our duty as Missionary Baptists to support Christian education. We ask that you send this money direct to Shaw or to the Treasurer of the Wake County Conventions.

Financial statement of our last Convention as reported to the Committee on Finance:

Number of scholars represented, 1962; at .05 per scholar, $98.35.

Scholars not represented, 1626.

Total on roll, 3593.

If all schoiars had been represented our representative money would have been $179.65 instead of $98.35.

Mission money reported, $39.34.

Annual membership dues, public offering, concerts, etc., $65.47.

Total raised, $203.16.

It is requested that each school represent all their scholars on roll in order that we may enlarge or better carry on our Teacher Training program and take care of all convention expenses. Also take care of our obligations to the State Convention.

We have made several visits personally to district meetings and finding the work going on in a progressive manner. I had expected it to take us five or ten years to make as much progress as we have. Although we did not lose faith in the people because we understand we cuold not progress any faster than the people could see or understand the program, the progress we have made has been astounding and surprising. We have tried to have patience because we understand people develop slowly. As before stated, when the outcome seems to hang in a balance, patience is needed to await results.

It cost last year something like $31.00 to supervise our Teacher Training Courses. Only a few schools took advanttage of it last year, but this year there was held in District No. .... for .... weeks a School of Methods, District No. .... for .... weeks a school of Methods, District No. .... for .... weeks a School of Methods, District No. .... for .... weeks a School of Methods, District No. .... for ....weeks a School of Methods, District No. .... for .... weeks a School of Methods, District No. .... for .... weeks a School of Methods. Out of 9 districtst 7 have been hard at work. These supervisors have been at work twelve months, before beginning their work. They had to study and make plans how they were going to proceed in this big undertaking without money to take care of expenses, but by the help of God these workers went forward with their work. A part of the expenses were taken care of by the people taking the course which proves just how interested they are in knowing more about Sunday School and the Bible. Expenses will be much more for this work this year because more has been done, more peeople have been reached. Yet in comparison to what has been done, the expenses are very small. Four years ago we planned this program. We have seen it grow and it is still growing. The eyes of the State is on the people of Wake County, the work is causing much concern. Questions are being asked "How and Why are certain things done?" "Who is responsible?"

If you will notice in the Constitution of this Convention you will find a fewminor changes, but the duties and objectives are the same. The only changes that have been made were in name only, that from Missionary to Districct and General Supervisor. Also having missionaries appointed in each school, their duty being to work in their own Sunday School for Mission read article 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18.

This program is nothing new, it is just what this convention was organized for 37 years ago. Study article 2 of the Constitution carefully. You will find we are doing just what we are supposed to do. My first year as president, the first thing I did was to study the Constitution from July until the latter part of August. The article which concerned me most and which was as puzzling was Article No. 2. Read it for yourself. Then the next question was "In what way can we best put into practice the things this Article suggests?" Then Articles 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 were the answers to this question and which were recommended to the Executive Board at Method in September, 1931.

If you will find a Minute of the year 1929 and you will see after you have read the Constitution in the 1929 Minutes and 1934 Minutes you will note the change, and if you will read the Minutes for the year 1933 you will find the recommendations I presented in my annual message, also which was received and adopted. Therefore these recommendations carried with it a recommendation that if these were received and adopted they would become constitutional. This is another answer to the question "Who is responsible?"

The Executive Board of which I am chairman and a selected number of members of this Convention was called in a meeting at Method September 1931. This program was planned and began operation then, although we did get some help in training our supervisors at Shaw, but we had already begun. During my first year as president I organized classes myself. After the first year I left the work entirely with the General Supervisor because it was causing some confusion. Therefore I have been serving in an advisory way which I am supposed to do.

We are urging every Sunday School to support the County Convention. In return we will represent you in the State Convention. The State has not given us one cent to finance this program, the Wake County Convention through your help and cooperation is financing this work, although it is our duty as a County unit to support the State Convention because I am convinced that is the way the State Convention should be organized, by County and district units, and that the State Convention should be a School of Methods to train convention officers and workers of the local units and that each county unit be asked to give so much according to the number of school belonging to the unit.

In conclusion I wish to make one or two recommendations:

(1) That each Sunday School designate one Sunday between now and the first of November to raise money for Shaw on the $70,000 drive and send it direct to Shaw.

(2) That each Sunday School strive to do all within their power to support the entire program 100 per cent, also the workers in their immediate school and the district supervisors.

Respectfully submitted,

A. C. PARRISH, President
